

VIETNAMESE LUNAR NEW YEAR

by Santa Fe Relocation

As we prepare in Vietnam for Tết (Lunar New Year), we would like to share our insights about the holiday so that you, your family and friends can fully enjoy this special time of the year. We hope this will help with the understanding of the history and traditions of Tết, what to be mindful of, how to say a few Tết phrases in Vietnamese, where Tết festivities are taking place and what establishments will be open during the holiday.

Please Enjoy! And Chúc Mừng Năm Mới!

What is Tết?

Tết is the most important festival of the Vietnamese calendar. It marks the beginning of the Lunar New Year and a time for renewal. Festivities occur throughout the country; however, this is a family holiday therefore many of the observances take place at home.

The 2022 TET in Vietnam is “Nhâm Dần” and are from Mon, Jan 31 to Thu, Feb 03 inclusive: Tết Lunar New Year’s Eve (Jan 31), The First (Feb 01), Second (Feb 02), and Third (Feb 03) of Tết Nguyên Đán. Vietnamese traditionally celebrate Tết from the fifteenth day of the twelfth lunar month to the fifteenth day of the first lunar month. And, even today, business slows down two weeks before and two weeks after TET.

According to Vietnam zodiac, Vietnamese New Year 2022 is a year of the “TIGER”. The Tiger is the third animal sign on the Vietnamese zodiac, Tigers are quick to anger and indecisive, but they can be flexible and accommodate their personalities to suit circumstances. People in the tiger sign like to be straightforward instead of beating around the bush. They rarely use diplomatic means, which sometimes make others unhappy. Talented ones are ambitious and never satisfied with the boring working environment.

Preparations for Tết

Vietnamese families prepare their homes for the coming of the prosperous New Year with a thorough cleaning. Preparations begin about ten days before the New Year. Homes are cleaned out hopes of getting rid of the past year's bad luck. People buy new clothes, which is also considered lucky for Tết. In the days leading up to Tết, streets and markets are busier than usual. As many shops will be closed during Tết, we suggest stocking up on supplies to last at least 1-2 days. To note however that many establishments catering for foreigners nowadays limits their businesses closing.

Legend of the Kitchen God

It is during this time that the Vietnamese believe Ông Táo comes in to serve as the Kitchen God. As the old year ends, it is believed that he discusses the family's situation with the Jade Emperor, the King of Heaven. Traditionally, Ông Táo returns to heaven on the 23rd day of the 12th month by lunar calendar. His departure is marked by a modest ceremony where offerings such as clothing, shoes, paper money are burned to help on his journey to Heaven.

Due to his status in Vietnamese culture, Ông Táo is a prominent character in many folk plays. He is considered a messenger from heaven, so often writers will depict the living conditions, problems, and solutions that need to be addressed by a family in their work.

Ông Táo is regarded as a family member, and various prayers and offerings are brought to him at the family altar.

During Tết

The last day of the old year (Jan 31) and the first three days of the New Year (Feb 01 – Feb 03) are the most important days of the celebration. On New Year's Eve, families gather for dinner, with all the members present. The Giao Thừa at midnight, is the most sacred time with the passage from the old to the New Year. Individuals offer personal prayers to honor and thank the God of Heaven and the God of Earth for their blessings. During this time, it is believed that Ông Táo returns to earth after reporting to the Jade Emperor. Each family offers an open-air ceremony to welcome him back to their kitchen.

The first day of Tết is reserved for the immediate family. Children are given red envelopes containing money from their elders referred to as Lì Xì. Usually, children wear new clothes and give their elders the traditional Tết greetings before receiving the money. Since Vietnamese believe that the first visitor a family receives in the year determines their fortune people never enter other's home on the first day without being invited first. During subsequent days, people visit relatives and friends.

Food & Flowers of Tết

In Vietnamese language, to celebrate Tết is to ăn Tết, literally meaning "eat Tết", showing the importance of food in the celebration. Some of the dishes can be enjoyed all year-round, while other dishes are only served during Tết. It is also believed to be good luck to enjoy vegetarian dishes on Tết. Some of the traditional dishes reflect this.

Popular traditional foods served during Tết are:

Bánh chưng and bánh tét: tightly packed sticky rice with meat or bean fillings wrapped in Dong (Bánh Chưng in the north) or banana leaves (Bánh Tét in the south). Considered an indispensable dish of Tết, Bánh Chưng or Bánh Tét is placed on the family altars to honor the ancestors and pray for their support in the new year.

Hạt Dưa: roasted watermelon seeds.

Dưa Hành: pickled onion and cabbage.

Củ Kiệu: pickled small leeks.

Mứt: These dried candied fruits are rarely eaten at any time besides Tết.

Thịt Kho Tàu: "Meat Stewed in Coconut Juice", a traditional dish of pork belly and medium boiled eggs stewed overnight in a broth-like sauce, often eaten with pickled bean sprouts and chives and white rice.

Hạt Dừa, Hạt Bì, Hạt Hướng Dương hạt điều, nho khô(roasted seeds).

Mứt (dried fruit)

Thịt Kho Tàu (meat stewed in coconut juice)

A typical meal offering to ancestors.

Vietnamese families traditionally lay out a tray of 5 fruits at the altar called “Mâm Ngũ Quả”. The fruits are colorful and meaningful. Asian mythology, the world is made of five basic elements: metal, wood, water, fire and earth. The plate of fruits on the family altar at New Year is one of the several ways to represent this concept. It also represents the desire for good crops and prosperity.

Fruit offering in the North include kumquats, bananas, oranges and Buddha hands.

Fruit offering in the South include custard apples, coconuts, papayas, mango and goolar fig. In Vietnamese they are “Cầu, Dừa, Đủ, Xoài, Sung” which in the South literally is a prayer to “have enough to use” in the New Year.

Kumquat Trees

Ben Binh Dong Flower Market (open from 20th of lunar December)

Similar to the pine tree for Christmas holiday in the West, Vietnamese also use many kinds of flowers and plants to decorate their homes for the holiday. Traditional plants include the Hoa Đào (Peach Blossom), Hoa Mai (Ochna Integerrima) and Cây Quất (Kumquat Tree). These plants represent coziness and prosperity. Other flowers may be displayed too.

Share Your Li Xi

Li Xi, “Lucky money” is given by the older and superior, to the younger and subordinate. Parents and grandparents, aunts and uncles, give lucky money to children. People give money to their friends' children, teachers give lucky money to students, and Management gives lucky money to employees.

Li Xi or Lucky Money is given in little red envelopes that you can buy in bookstores or on the streets. It should be given during the first few days of the New Year, but it is also possible to give a little before and after this time. It is traditionally important to give new bank notes, which are considered luckier for the recipients.

The amount of Li Xi can be from VND 50,000 to 500,000. Depending on the relationship between the giver and receiver, you may wish to give more or less.

For full-time staff VND 200,000 to 500,000, for other staff (ie. trash collector, shared security, etc..) VND 100,000 to 200,000. You may also give Li Xi to their children, VND 50,000 to 100,000

Bonus Time

If you have household helpers, drivers, gardeners etc., it is expected at this time to pay their salaries as well as Li Xi and/or bonus. The bonus is determined by how long they have been working for you and of course if you are happy with their services. In general, if the employee has been working for you for more than one year the bonus starts from one month's salary and can be 2 or 3 months at your discretion. If the employee has been working for you for under a year you may prorate the bonus.

Before Tết begins, you give your staff their salary and their bonus (bonus in red envelope) and wish them a happy Tết time with their families. For Employers who have already paid staff bonuses at the end of the calendar or fiscal year then a smaller amount for Li Xi should be given for good luck.

New to Vietnam?

Tết is an exciting time for gift giving and family gatherings. However, if you are a foreigner in Vietnam, you are not obliged to participate and need only do what you prefer. Some may want to enjoy the quiet streets around this time and keep an eye on what shops and restaurants are open. For options and information on what to do in Ho Chi Minh City and Hanoi, read more in our Calendar of Events & Activities and our Opening Time Guide.

Common Wishes for Tết

- Chúc Mừng Năm Mới (Chook moong numb moi) - Happy New Year
- Sống lâu trăm tuổi (Sowng l-ow chrum thui) - Live to be 100 years old - used by children for elders.
- An khang thịnh vượng (Ang khang tinh vuong) - Security, good health, and prosperity
- Vạn sự như ý (Vant su nhu ee) - May a myriad of things go according to your will
- Sức khỏe dồi dào (Suok kewa yoi yao) - Plenty of health
- Cung hỉ phát tài (Khung he fak th-ai) - (from the Cantonese, Gung hay fat choy) Congratulations and be prosperous
- Tiền vô như nước (Th-ien voh nhu nhuk) - May money flow in like water - used informally
- Nhiều may mắn (nhew maye manh) - Good luck

Dos and Please Don'ts and a Few Words of Caution

- DO Learn the Vietnamese greetings. If you're going to be around for Tết, join the festivities by wishing other people a Happy New Year in Vietnamese.

- DO Give out Lì Xi. Your children can also be part of the most exciting part of the New Year – give out the red envelopes to them to bring good luck!
- DO Be mindful of your belongings when going out. This is the time of the year when individuals may be under pressure to have money for the holiday and some resort to stealing.
- DO Double-check your doors and windows before leaving your home. Make sure that everything is locked.
- DO Put your wallet, hand phone, car keys in safe place. Be extra mindful when near crowds.
- DON'T Set foot in anybody's home on the first day of Tết, unless invited (Tue, 1st of Feb this year). In many households, the father (or sometimes the whole family) is the first visitor. Many people and businesses will pick an auspicious date and time to leave their homes and/or start their businesses.

- DON'T Refuse anything others give or wish during Tết.
- DON'T: when you visit the host house, if they have son/daughter under marriage ages, do not ask their children "when will you get married?". If they are already married, DON'T ask "When will you get baby?". It's used to be very popular questions to all Vietnamese but it's changing now as it's considered impolite to ask those questions today.

Local Taboos & Superstitions

- Vietnamese people extend wishes of good health and fortune to their fellows and avoid mentioning their ancestors' birth names or past mistakes.
- Fill vessels of rice, water, salt in the home for a prosperous New Year.

- All debts should be paid at this time.

- If you cry on New Year's Day, you will cry through the year. Therefore, children are tolerated and are not spanked.
- Shooting off firecrackers on New Year's Eve is a way of sending out the old year and welcoming in the New Year.
- Go to the pagoda to pick young buds from trees or plants and display them in your home to welcome good fortune.

- Sweeping or dusting should not be done on New Year's Day for the fear that good fortune will be swept away.

- Washing one's hair should not be done on New Year's Day as it will wash away the good luck of the New Year.
- Haircuts should be avoided on New Year's Day as you will be cutting your luck.
- Avoid wearing black and white as it is associated with funerals and death, therefore bad luck. These colors are often worn at funerals in Vietnam and therefore people are supposed to avoid wearing them on the first days of the year.

Hoa Mai (Ochna Intergerrima)

Hoa Đào (peach blossom) is more common in the North as it can grow in the dry and cold weather. It is used to ward off evil spirits during the Tết celebrations.

Hoa Đào (Peach Blossom)

Tết Gift Giving

Gift giving is a popular Tết custom and is an important occasion for building and maintaining social ties. Much of the celebration of Tết centers around good luck, and everything is done with this in mind.

What to give for Tết?

Giving gifts in Vietnam during the Tết holiday should focus on the Vietnamese symbols of good luck such as new clothes for children, peach branches or anything red.

Wine, tea, cookies, chocolates are widely used as gifts.

Here are among the most popular gifts given:

Hoa Mai & Hoa Đào Flowers

Live, blooming flowers symbolize the rebirth that will take place in the coming spring and fruit blossoms symbolize the start of the cycle that will result in a new crop of fruit later in the year. These two distinct flowers are widely sold and purchased during Tết. The spectacular yellow flowers of the Hoa Mai (ochna integerrima) make it very popular in southern Vietnam.

heaven and earth, nowadays; those old gourds are replaced by modern wine bottles. The meaning and tradition of giving wine has remained unchanged. It takes a lot of time for wine to ferment and distil; so wine is highly appreciated by Vietnamese. Nevertheless, drinking wine can make people feel warm and energetic, which are exactly what people wish for their upcoming year.

Red Items

Red symbolizes good luck, prosperity, joyfulness and contentment. During Tết one can see the color red everywhere, from the ornaments, lucky envelopes, to the clothes of the elderly on the first days of the New Year. Whichever gifts you plan to give, place a priority on the red and yellow (gold) and avoid dark colors.

Lucky

colors

Lucky color in the year of the Tiger is Brown which symbolizes prudence. Wearing brown clothes will make you look more reliable to your business partners. The Tiger is the third zodiac sign from the Lunar calendar.

Greeting Cards

Similar to western culture, greeting cards are also given for this holiday. Typical greeting cards are printed in vivid colors like red or yellow and with distinctive images such as apricot and peach blossom, sticky rice cake etc...

Cây Quất (Kumquat Tree)

Remember, when buying plants, you should purchase them closer to the holiday as the plants should be fresh and bloom for Tết.

Wine & Gift Baskets

Historically wine was kept in pottery gourds and was believed to contain the essence of What NOT to give for Tết?

Several gifts are considered taboo, including watches, clocks (associated with death); knives, scissors, forks (cutting good luck) anything black (ink, coffee), anything related to fire (lighter) and handkerchiefs (as it symbolizes tears and sweat in the New Year).

Did you KNOW that?

Vietnamese Zodiac Signs – Legend Stories

In Vietnamese tradition, it is widely known that each year is “sponsored” respectively by one of the twelve animals of the Vietnamese zodiac: the first one is the rat, then comes the buffalo, followed sequentially by the tiger, cat, dragon, snake, horse, goat, monkey, rooster, dog, and lastly, the pig. Every twelve years, the sponsorship goes back to the same animal. Let’s take a closer look at the legend stories behind these creatures.

The Rat

The Jade Emperor organized the race that animals were supposed to swim across the river, and the first 12 finishers would take a place on the calendar. The cat and the rat, being lazy, decided to ride on the back of the water buffalo. Shortly before reaching the other side, the two-faced and deceitful rat pushed the cat into the raging river, quickly hopped off to the finish line and obviously became the first animal of the zodiac list.

The Buffalo

It is said that the gracious water buffalo was about to be the fastest one, but he was way too naive when agreeing to help the rat and the cat across the river. The rest of the story, as has been mentioned earlier, explained the reason why the buffalo just the second one after the rat. The rat pushed the cat down to the river and jumped off the head of the buffalo when they neared the finish line and crossed first. Therefore, the buffalo was pensive to be the later.

The Tiger

Even the great strength could not help the tiger become the winner as the currents of the raging river were too strong. Finally, he came in crossing the finish line huffing and puffing.

The Cat

This zodiac made its 4th after being betrayed by the rat in the Great Race. While crossing the river on the water buffalo’s back, the cunning rat pushed the cat into the river to guarantee its 1st place. Since then, the cat and the rat have been implacable enemies.

The Dragon

Why was a legendary dragon with the ability to fly not in the first position? The answer is that he was busy helping a village of farmers by creating heavy rains to irrigate a local village suffering from severe drought. That’s why the dragon made it in 5th place.

The Snake

The snake was another scheming animal because it nested itself into the hoof of the horse. When the horse neared the finish line, he popped out scaring the horse and so became the 6th one.

The Horse

The horse with all its power crossed the river by itself. However, it didn’t notice the snake hiding in its hoof. Being scared half to death causing, the horse made it in 7th place.

The Goat

Being a slow swimmer, the goat decided to make a deal with the monkey and the rooster forming a team to cross the river. After being informed by the rooster about a raft floating nearby in the marshy grasslands, the goat cut through the weeds and grass with its sharp teeth and helped the monkey pull the raft out of the river. Happily, all three of the animals rode the raft across the river to the finish line.

The Monkey

Its story is the same as the goat’s.

The Rooster

Its story is the same as the goat’s.

The Dog

Although being a great swimmer, the dog was still on the bottom of the list because of its playfulness and excitement in enjoying the river. He had so much fun that he nearly forgot the on-going race and finally made it in 11th place.

The Pig

The reason the pig ended up at the end of the great race was that it stopped a bit to eat a huge meal and then fell asleep. When he woke up, he realized he was still in a race and in panic, ran into the finish line.
